

DUTCH FLAT ENQUIRER.

SATURDAY MORNING, DEC. 3, 1864.

Now, by St. Paul, the work goes bravely on. The steam and the ship are up for liberty. The flag of the Nation—Tallman of the Free, Ours!—is the hand that dare to tear the down.

THIS week we give up our editorial responsibilities to Mr. D. E. McCarthy, Esq., of the Territorial Enterprise, who has kindly consented to take charge of our "concern" for a month, or until the roads are opened. If our patrons are not satisfied with this issue we must confess that nothing can please them. Mr. McCarthy is a gentleman noted for his unswerving fidelity to the Union and the glorious cause of liberty. We have made this arrangement at a tremendous sacrifice of "Bourbon" and money, and those who have not paid their subscriptions will please embrace the earliest opportunity to "pony up" as the cost of maintaining such an editor is exceedingly "rough."

CONVERTED.—There is an old gentleman sixty years of age, living near Gold Run, who was born in Massachusetts, where the teachers attempted to impress upon his mind the doctrine of total depravity in human kind, which, however, he says they could not do, as he believed there was some good in every man. The old gentleman now says that the doctrine of total depravity is right, as he has had the matter demonstrated to his entire satisfaction, on the day of last election. On that occasion he witnessed an old sinner, who was born in the land of steady habits walk up and unblushingly deposit his vote for the disunion nominee for the Presidency. He says that this recent son of the North is fit for nothing that he can think of, and he supposed, in his steadfast faith in human nature, that this old reprobate would at least be true to his country, but he calculated wrong, and is now prepared to give in his adherence to the doctrine of the total depravity of man.

FAIR.—The ladies of this place have been engaged for some time past in making up every description of fancy articles preparatory to holding a fair for the purpose of raising means to furnish the new church, procuring lamps, carpets, cushions, etc. As the ladies always accomplish what they undertake, we risk nothing in predicting for them a brilliant success on this occasion. This will be an excellent opportunity for those intending to make Christmas and New Year presents to visit the fair. A prominent feature of the fair will be the New England Kitchen, where the hungry will be fed and the thirsty given drink. The fair will take place on Thursday and Friday evenings, the 22d and 23d insts. The ladies have not yet determined at what particular place they will hold the fair, but timely notice will be given so as to inform all.

MIS SOCIETY.—The meetings of this society have recommenced. The gatherings under the auspices of this organization are very agreeable and pleasant, and what enhances the pleasure and satisfaction of those who attend is the consciousness of contributing to a noble cause—the furnishing and fitting up of a house of worship in which ministers of every Christian denomination may expound the gospel. The next meeting of the society will take at the residence of Mr. B. H. Bartlett, on Tuesday evening, 6th inst.

CAUGHT.—The Sunday before the last election Mr. Garity, of Iowa Hill, left his place of business to attend a political meeting at Forest Hill, and during his absence his house was entered by thieves, who broke his safe and took all the coin, a lot of jewelry and one or two pistols, leaving quite an amount in legal tender notes which escaped their notice. Nothing was found out, notwithstanding the most diligent search, as to the guilty parties, until last Sunday, when the chambermaid of the hotel de Orleans was making the bed of the cook, who is an American citizen of African descent, she found under the pillow a gold watch and quite a sum of money in gold. This excited suspicion, and the cook was arrested, when he made a clear confession, implicating another "colored brother" who was employed on the road between Wisconsin Hill and Yankee Jim's. They stated that it was their intention to rob Mr. Calvin, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s agent, and had made the keys and completed other preparations to that end. They were in irons on Monday last, when our informant left, and the people had not decided what should be done with them.

ROBBERIES.—For some weeks past, some poor "white trash," numbering four or five, have been prowling round this neighborhood seeking whom they might devour. They were followed a week ago to the river near Mineral Bar, where six or eight Chinamen were robbed on the same day. The Tax Collector is highly indignant at the conduct of these foot pads, and wants to know why the Constables and Sheriffs don't keep their wolves off his lambs. The Chinamen are leaving their diggings by scores in consequence of the raids of the scoundrels.

OUR people have been particularly fortunate during the present storm in escaping from all accidents or mishaps to themselves or property. We have heard of but one accident in this vicinity during the present storm, and that one of a minor character. Messrs. Bartlett & Thomas' ship sustained a slight injury but was immediately repaired, and are now ready to furnish their customers.

DEATH.—A private dispatch to his son, B. Sullivan, Jr., announces the death of Richard, Connecticut, on the 24th inst., of Professor Benjamin Sullivan, aged over 85 years. He has been known for many years as one of the leading scientific men of the age.

A UNIVERSAL RELIGION.

MR. EDITOR:—The following is a rough and hasty outline of Rev. I. E. Dwinell's discourse in this place on the 20th ult., it being a part of the organization ceremonies of Plymouth Church:

TEXT.—"There is a God here, which hath five barley loaves and two small fishes; but what are they among so many?" "Therefore they gathered them together, and filled twelve baskets with the fragments of the five barley loaves which remained over and above unto them that had eaten."—John vi, 9, 13.

The miracle of the feeding of the multitude sets forth symbolically one of the permanent truths of christianity, its capability of miraculous supply of the spiritual wants of men of all ages, and localities, and conditions, and races. This is opposed to the notion that we have outgrown christianity—a prominent form of the unbelief of the present day.

SUBJECT.—The universal adaptation of the Gospel.

PROOF.—1. Human nature is everywhere the same in its spiritual substances and qualities. The peculiarities of individuals or nationalities do not affect the great common underlying features of their nature, in which they are all alike, in every age, and every stage of progress. The unbeliever, who fancies that we have outgrown christianity, overlooks this essential fact, and hence, at this point, he makes his first blunder. 2. The religious wants of all men are essentially the same; the same kind of heart to be cleansed, the same need of regeneration, and of a Savior. The unbeliever disregards this fact also, and hence his second blunder. 3. The principles and graces of piety, regarded merely as qualities, are everywhere the same. Love to God, love to man, repentance, obedience, trust, faith, humility, etc., etc., as principles, are the same in all ages. By losing sight of this undeniable fact, the unbeliever makes his third blunder. For he who has progressed where these things are something different in kind from what they were in the days of Christ has progressed outside of, beyond, heaven! 4. Assuming these facts, the substantial identity of human nature, of man's religious wants, and of spiritual life itself, in all ages and localities, consider now the adaptation of the Gospel to meet this condition of things. Its grand peculiarity is that it does not primarily concern itself with the things in which men differ, but in which they agree. It cuts its way down to the common, central and essential facts of their being. It does this by bestowing upon all who welcome it, the needed Savior, regeneration and the graces and principles of spiritual life. It thus meets the timeless, unchangeable, common wants of fallen human nature. It has also unlimited capabilities of adaptation to the accidents, and changing circumstances, and peculiarities of individual men, for it puts the right spirit into a man, and when a right spirit is in him, put him where you will, he will act aright. It stations the right master at the helm. Hence it shows the rich man how to administer his wealth, and the poor man how to gladden and ennoble his poverty, and so on through all the different conditions of life. It has the same adaptation to communities, for its genius is not that of spiritual organizing forces, and hence it has perfect flexibility to all local wants—to the condition of any community—leaving its old forms when they are inadequate, and adapted to its wants as a living and divine energy for the salvation of the people. Hence it follows that christianity is just as truly God's present method and device for the salvation of Dutch Flat, as if it came down fresh from his heart and hand. It has no redundancies, no deficiencies, lacks nothing, to meet your specific spiritual wants. It is a happy thing, so far as this principle of adaptation is concerned, that you have decided to become a Congregational Church; for of all denominations, there is the least of a denomination about congregationalism, the least of an organization, the least to come between you and Christ. You are to-day a whole, ecclesiastical unit, the peer and equal of any of the churches in christendom, in ecclesiastical standing. Now, therefore, it follows that you have nowhere else to go in search of a religion. Christianity is all you need. Embrace it and be true to it.

This is only a bare outline, which will hardly give you an idea of the sermon as a whole. A SPECTATOR.

Dutch Flat, Dec. 1, 1864.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Saturday night last, says the Grass Valley Union of the 29th inst. as a miner named John F. Marshall was engaged in doing something on the dam of the Castle mill, on Little Wolf Creek, by some means he fell into the creek, which was running like a torrent at the time, and was carried down about twenty rods by the turbid stream before he was extricated by some men who heard his cries for help. When taken out of the water he was supposed to be dead, the men who took him out very imprudently leaving him lying out in the rain and cold while they went in search of help. While they were gone, the unfortunate man revived, and on their return managed to walk home; but the cold and exposure were too much for human nature, and he died on Sunday morning, leaving a wife and two small children to mourn their irreparable loss. Deceased was a Cornishman, aged about 32 years.

FROZEN TO DEATH.—The body of A. T. Ree was found last Thursday, near Zerr's station, lying across the road, and frozen to death.

BLOCKED IN.—The late severe storms have "obscured" the road above this place to such an extent as to prevent the stages from making their regular trips for the last two days. This delay has been occasioned by trees falling over the road more than the snow. The stage passengers are well cared for, however, in Dutch Flat during their detention.

UNDER ARREST.—The Virginia Constitution learns that Lieutenant-Colonel Williams, of the Nevada Cavalry Volunteers, now at Camp Douglas, has been placed under arrest for certain charges "prejudicial to good order and military discipline," and rather than stand a court-martial, Williams will probably resign.

CONFEDERATE PRIVATEERS IN THE PACIFIC.

By the arrival of the Sacramento we have the subjoined account of the attempt of Confederate privateers in the Pacific to capture the Panama Railroad Company's steamer Salvador, which we take from the Mercantile Chronicle, (Panama) of November 11th:

It appears from the straggling accounts we have gathered together, that advices were received in this city, not long since, that an organized party would be here to seize the steamer Guatemala. Some say these advices came from Havana to the English Consul at Colon, who communicated them to the American Consul here, and who in his turn informed the Admiral and the Railroad Superintendent of the plot. Others have said that the advices came from New York, and that the conspirators reached the Isthmus by the steamer Ocean Queen on the 3d inst. However that may be, the result has been that yesterday, the 10th inst., when the Salvador got under way, the steamer according to arrangements, round the P. M. S. Sacramento, on the lee side of which had been posted boats with sixty marines from the United States steam frigate Lancaster. The Salvador was then boarded by Captain Devanport, with the marines, who at once took command of the vessel, as had been also arranged. The passengers were then called up, and the suspected parties rigidly inspected. On one fellow was found a pair of fine handkerchiefs, supposed to have been intended to grace the wrists of Captain Douglass, of the Salvador, had they been able to get them on. He had one or more fancy knives of formidable appearance. He had pistols and ammunition, and the papers which disclose the secrets of the plot. The other parties were also similarly provided, save, of course, the papers; and the evidence against thirteen men was found sufficient to warrant Captain Devanport in preventing their passage on the Salvador. As the ship was still in Colombian waters, no attempt was made to restrict the liberty of the subject beyond a close surveillance; and the vessel, still under way, was taken to sea by the United States officer in command. In the meantime the Lancaster had also got up steam and proceeded to sea. It is presumed that when beyond the jurisdiction of this country, the thirteen men will be arrested and subjected to the maritime laws of the United States, under whose jurisdiction the case will fall when the arrests are made. On the return of the Lancaster, which will probably be before our next issue, we hope to be able to give an exact account of this attempt, which was intended to lead to the capture of one or more of the California steamers.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

A correspondent of the S. F. Bulletin furnishes the following additional particulars: At daylight on the 11th inst. the Lancaster signaled the Salvador to heave-to, twenty to thirty miles outside Point Malo, say one hundred miles from Panama. During the preceding night, an examination was made of the passengers' baggage, and in several of the trunks arms, Bowie and dirk knives, pistols, Confederate shoulder-straps, ammunition, etc., found. Captain Devanport, after the search, informed the passengers that they were not under arrest, but that in searching their baggage he acted only as a police officer. A guard, however, of eighty men was posted in different parts of the ship, and relieved every two hours during the night. When the ships heaved-to, Captain Devanport ordered everybody on the hurricane deck, and informed the following named persons that they, being now outside the jurisdiction of New Granada, were under arrest, and would be transferred to the Lancaster: T. E. Hogg, alias Erson, acting master Confederate Navy; E. A. Swain, Acting-master's mate and Executive Officer; John Hiddle, Acting Chief Engineer; F. J. Grady, Acting Assistant Paymaster; R. R. Lyon, Sailing Master; Joseph Higgins, Paymaster's Clerk; and several others, subsequently released from lack of sufficient evidence to warrant their detention. The baggage of the seven, as well as themselves, were immediately transferred to the Lancaster, and she made steam for Panama, while the Salvador proceeded on her voyage, with injunctions to keep a close watch on the suspected persons not detained. On the return to Panama the baggage was again thoroughly overhauled, and many valuable papers, also a Confederate flag, discovered. The developments made by these papers are very important as regards the ramifications of the plot or plots. No commissions of the parties were found, but full instructions from S. R. Mallory, Sec. of the Navy, were discovered. These instructions direct the capture of the two Central American steamers, then the California steamers, the Chincha Island ships, the Pacific whaling fleet, and the commerce generally of the United States on the Pacific. These instructions are six months old. Hogg left Wilmington, he says, in May, but was captured on the Tristram Shandy, blockade runner, by a United States war ship, and carried into New York. Here he was detained for a number of months and then released, claiming to be an Englishman. From New York he went to Havana and organized his band, consisting of say twenty-five men. Two of the party have gone from Panama to the south coast, probably to make arrangements for coals, etc. Fifteen went from Aspinwall to Greytown, to go overland to Realajo on the Pacific, expecting to get on one of the Panama Railroad Company's steamers there. They would find the Guatemala in port there about the 10th of the present month, but Captain Dow having been informed of the plot before he left Panama, will be, it is presumed, on his guard. He is due here on the 16th. The Guatemala is the steamer they want for their piratical cruise, she being a fleet propeller of 1,000 tons, and carrying coal for constant steaming for sixty days. If they do get her, the commerce of the Pacific will suffer, but I do not think there is much fear. The pirates will be taken to New York on the 16th, in the gunboat convoy at Aspinwall. The authorities, on an application of Col. McKee and Mr. Rice, Consuls at Panama and Aspinwall, Admiral Pearson and Mr. Nelson, have declined to give permission for them to cross the Isthmus, and they will go without their consent.

PERSONAL.—Dutch Flat rejoiceth at present in registering the names of the following distinguished arrivals: Marshal Cooke of Virginia (one of God's best manufacturers); Lance Nightingill, Controller of State, Nevada, (hully boy); M. A. H. Ball, Senator, Nevada; Mr. Greely, Representative from Storey, and last, but not least, by a darned sight, D. E. McCarthy of the Territorial Enterprise.

THE assessed value of slaughtered cattle, sheep and hogs in San Joaquin county, in the year 1863, was $75,000. In 1864 the value of the same was $32,000; a falling off to the amount of $43,000.

GEN. FREMONT is one of the leaders of the new loan. He is willing to trust the Republic to the amount of $50,000, which shows that he has faith in the country and the cause.

MURDER.—On Tuesday last, a man by the name of Frank Miller, of Dayton, was found dead on the Hot Springs road, some seven miles from Como. He was found about 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning, and when found was supposed to have been dead about four hours, as there was not sufficient warmth in his body to melt the snow which lay on him. He was killed by a pistol or rifle shot through the head, the shot entering near the right ear and coming out near the left. The murderer is unknown. An inquest was held on the body, and the verdict of the coroner's jury is in accordance with the above.—Enterprise.
